Sir:

RULE 132 DECLARATION OF ANDREW MALCOM JELL

I, Andrew Malcolm Jell, hereby declare and say of my own personal knowledge and belief:

1. THAT during 2000 and since 1986, I was employed by Lemont & Hauspie Ltd.,

(^{AM} B^{AM}, Adastral Park Martlesham Heath, Ipswich, Suffolk, IP5 3RE, England) as the Editor of the BT Technology Journal (BTTJ) which is published by Lemont & Hauspie.

2. THAT I received the paper "Models of Human Perception" by Anthony Rix on 9 December 1998 on a floppy disk given to me by John Seton who was coordinating all the papers for Vol. 17, No. 1 of the BTTJ. The paper was then edited and formatted to the Journal house style.

3. THAT I forwarded the paper in electronic format (file name 'Moh.zip') to our in-house printers on 13 February 1999, as shown in the covering e-mail, a printout of which is attached hereto as Enclosure 1. The reason for the delay between the receipt of Anthony Rix's paper and sending the formatted version to the printers was because many of the other papers were received late (the last paper not being received until 25 January 1999); all papers were then paginated and sent to the printers at the same time.

4. THAT distribution of the printed periodical are controlled by myself. Volume 17, No. 1, which has the cover date of January 1999, in which the paper by Mr. Rix appears, was in fact first distributed on 19 March 1999. No copies of Anthony Rix's paper were released by me to anyone else prior to 19 March 1999.

5. THAT attached as Enclosure 2 is a printout of an e-mail I sent to our in-house printers on 23 March 1999, confirming receipt of the copies of the printed Volume 17, No. 1 of the BTTJ on Friday, 19 March 1999.

6. THAT the attached printouts at enclosures 1 and 2 are copies of the electronic mail cover sheet transmitting Mr. Rix's paper from myself to the printers and the electronic mail sent by myself to the printers confirming receipt of the printed volume on 19 March 1999.

7. THAT I declare further that all statements made herein of my/our own knowledge are true and that all statements made on information and belief are believed to be true; and further that these statements were made with the knowledge that willful false statements and the like so made are punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both, under Section 1001 of Title 18 of the United States Code and that such willful false statements may jeopardize the validity of the application or any patent issuing thereon.
